...From Our President and CEO

Although our annual report is always a look back at the previous year and what was accomplished, I would be remiss if I did not also acknowledge the current state of our world and its impact on those we served at Lutheran Social Ministries of New Jersey.

In all that we do across the state, 'GRACE' has guided us in the care we provide for the health and well-being of those we serve. But never has it been more apparent than during these past few months of the coronavirus pandemic and the nationwide protests, that our employees have demonstrated how strongly this gracious power has led them to persevere, and stand tall and strong. Throughout all of our programs, we call upon the strength of our Lutheran heritage and values to remind us that we are grounded in these values which empower us with greater confidence toward actionable good.

When faced with adversity, we have engaged selflessly to care for our most frail population. But this courage is deeply rooted in our LSMNJ family. No matter what role an employee holds in our organization, or the program they work for, they believe in our mission and carry out God's work every day, year after year. We draw from this inner strength that God gives us to serve those in need.

What you'll find in the articles

we share, are Board members, church partners, and volunteers who are also guided by the grace of God to help LSMNJ provide assistance. We are blessed by an extended family of individuals who live to serve others, as we do. Their dedication to helping others and their affinity to LSMNJ allows us to magnify our efforts and broaden our reach.

As we move forward into this new landscape of living, we will reflect back on our accomplishments of 2019 and years past for inspiration. We will continue to raise the bar on quality of care, embark on upgrades and renovations to meet future needs, expand the reach of our life-changing services and implement new initiatives to further execute the mission of our organization. Whatever the path for LSMNJ, we'll continue to employ 'Grace' to guide us in the decisions we make throughout our many programs.

Giving unconditionally

For more than 115 years, Lutheran Social Ministries of New Jersey has brought services to those in need – dating back to its origins as an orphanage in Jersey City. Throughout our history, we have relied on the generosity of others who believe in our mission and share in our passion for helping others.

With us every step of the way, have been our church partners who contribute funds, volunteer their time, share gifts-in-kind and spread the word of our ministry. Our connection with dozens of churches across the state has been, in many cases, a lifeline for helping those less fortunate. We have developed strong partnerships and worked with hundreds of dedicated people who are committed to sharing God's love. Without the support of our partner churches, we would be limited in our scope and reach.

And while we continue to make an impact on those we serve, we hope to do more. As we reach out to Lutheran congregations in an effort to establish new partnerships, we commend those who have already been walking alongside us for many years. Here we profile three congregations and their efforts to support LSMNJ, which are aligned with their own governing mission statements.

Christ Lutheran Church in Woodcliff Lake

Christ Lutheran Church has provided financial support through their budgeted benevolence program for nearly ten years. However, their signature support has been in providing assistance to families and seniors throughout LSMNJ's affordable housing programs. Since 2011, the congregation has assembled Easter baskets and supply-filled backpacks for children, as well as Easter dinner bags, filled grocery bags and hygiene kits for seniors and the homeless.

The congregation has five church council committees that work diligently on their outreach projects, contributing money, time and effort. In light of the current pandemic, they'll be collecting to contribute financially to support LSMNJ's 2020 Educational Fund to provide back-to-school supplies in the Fall.

"Part of the Mission Statement of our church includes, 'to offer hospitality and care to all in our congregation, our community and the world.' We feel LSMNJ cares for people, and we are blessed to be a part of that mission on behalf of the people of God."

Doris C. Crouse

Parish Administrator at Christ Lutheran

Faith Lutheran Church in New Providence

Since 1993, Faith Lutheran Church has been a partner to LSMNJ in delivering help and assistance to those in need. Much of their support comes from financial contributions. However, Faith has also provided years of hands-on assistance as well. In the aftermath of SuperStorm Sandy in 2012, teen and young adult members from Faith were part of LSMNJ's organized team of volunteers who helped with clean up at the Jersey shore.

As an advocate of LSMNJ, Faith Lutheran has organized a number of program-specific appeals over the years. Their most recent appeal will collect funds to help provide much needed aid in the midst of the recent worldwide pandemic.

"The ministry of LSM is so vast and captures a variety of vulnerable populations that are far too often overlooked. Faith and LSMNJ are the church together and couldn't possibly touch the number of people as one, so we work in partnership to be the Body of Christ."

The Rev. Jane McCready
Pastor at Faith Lutheran Church

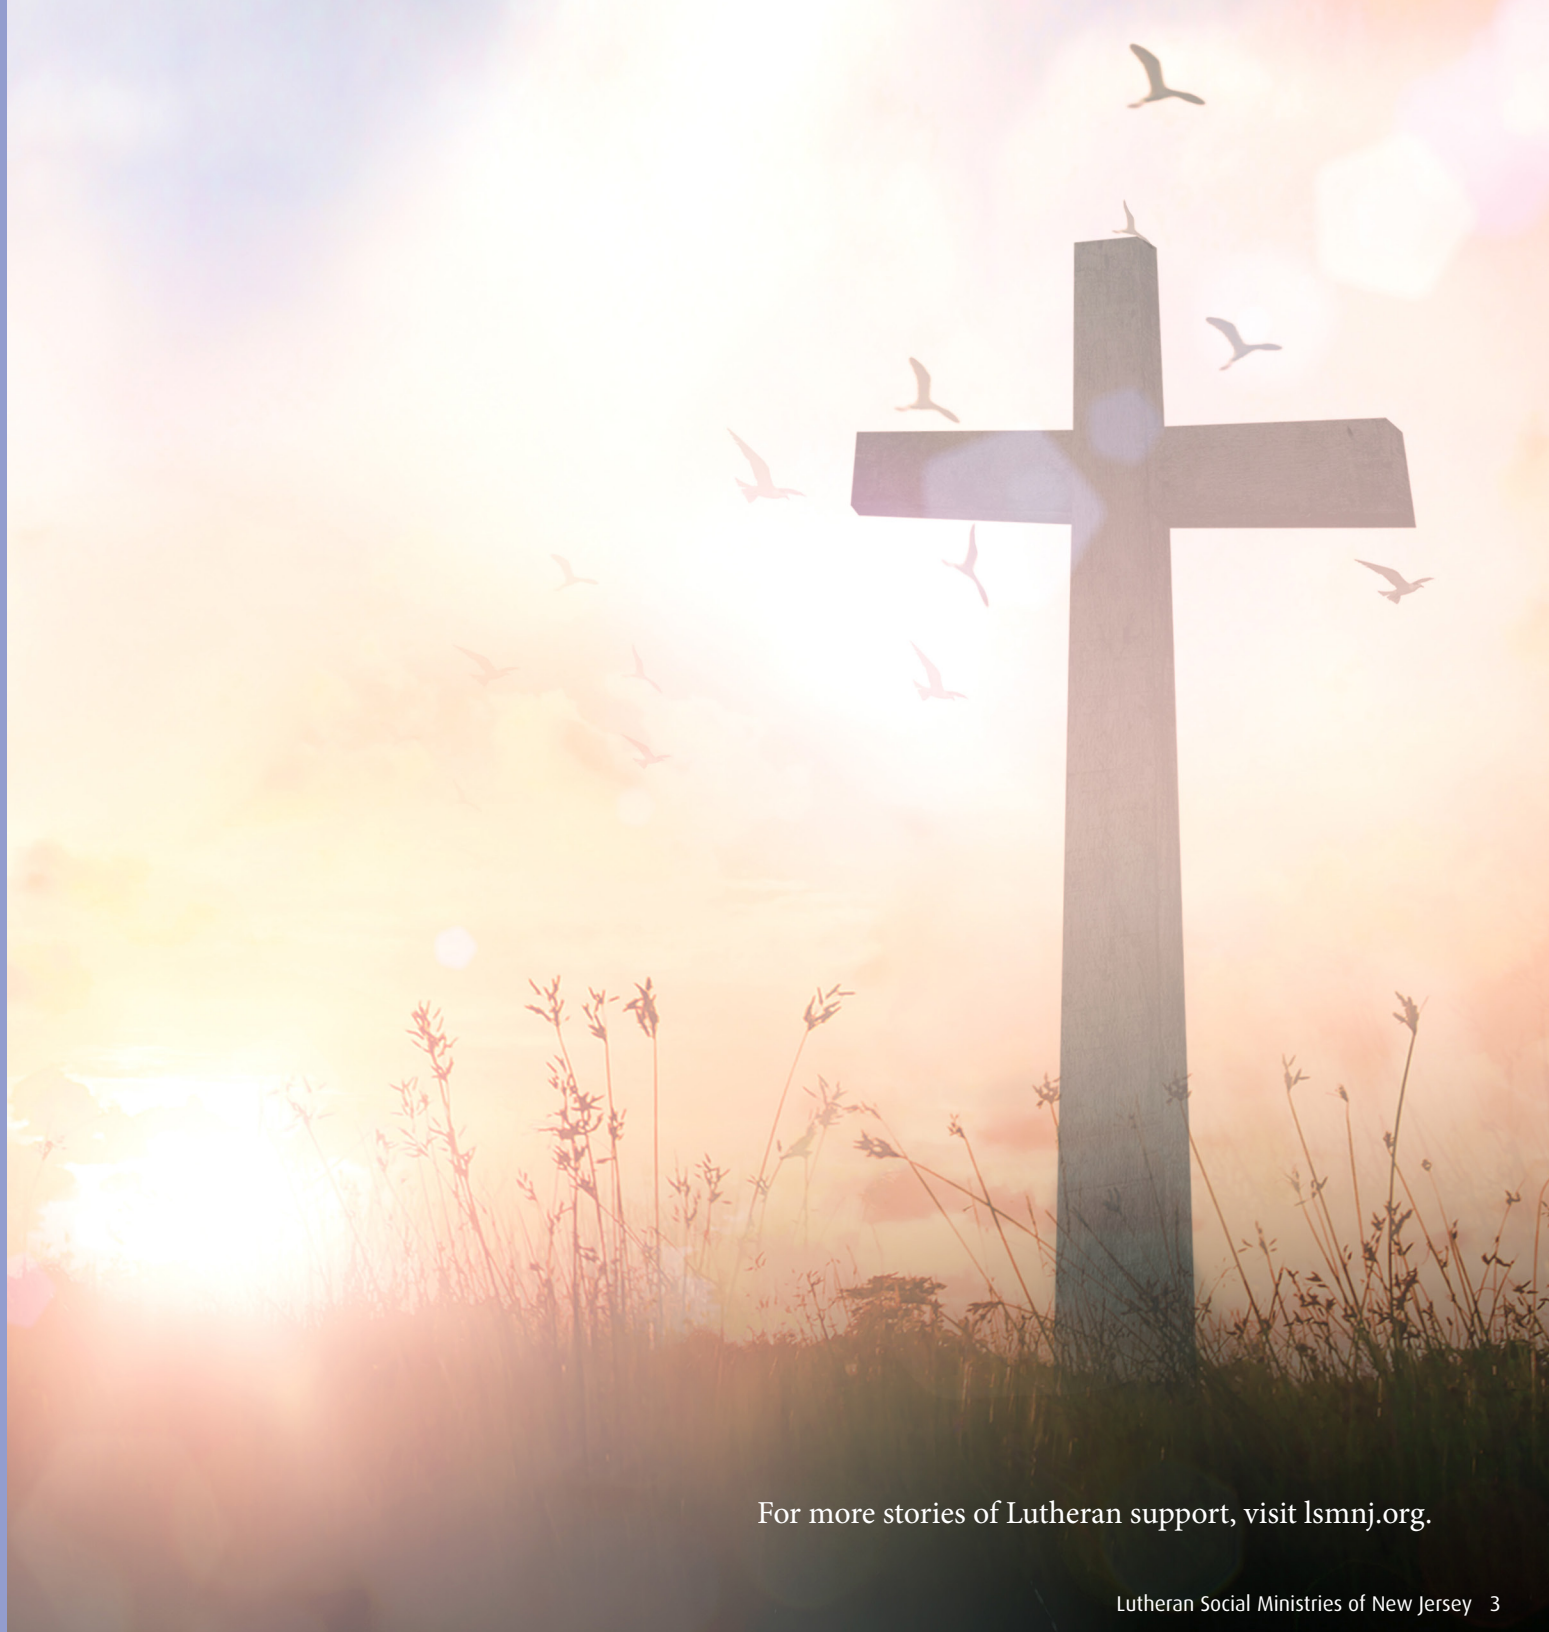

St. Michael's Lutheran Church in Cherry Hill

Over the years, St. Michael's Lutheran Church has supported LSMNJ in various ways. Through volunteer efforts, food donations, attendance at events like Feet in the Street and the Annual Golf Outing, as well as consistent support of supplying meals to Camden's homeless men and women, St. Michael's carries out a cornerstone mission to address food insecurity and homelessness.

In 2018, St. Michael's started a partnership with LSMNJ's affordable family housing in Camden to provide food in the form of Easter and Thanksgiving holiday meals to resident families. In 2019, the initiative resulted in the opening of LSM of Camden's food pantry, a venture that the congregation continues to support with food and household products, as well as financial contributions.

"Over the years, we have always had positive experiences when we have supported or partnered with LSMNJ. Members of our congregation know their donations go a long way to address issues they support."

Treasurer at St. Michael's Lutheran Church

Real heroes helping those in need in Camden

If you asked LSMNJ donors Charles Holmes and Ken Van Dongen if they think of themselves as heroes in the community, they would quickly say, “no.” But to members of the Camden community who are benefitting from their dedication and commitment, they would definitely call them heroes.

Faith and giving back were instilled in these two LSMNJ board members at an early age. And it’s these values that led them to their roles as board members and active donors with LSMNJ.

Van Dongen, a retired vice president in the financial industry, is in his second term as a member of the LSMNJ Board of Trustees and currently holds the vice chair position. He came to know of LSMNJ as a volunteer for Lutheran Disaster Recovery in the years that followed Superstorm Sandy. He participated in the organization’s Hand-in-Hand volunteer days, helping people get back into their homes and businesses. “While many times we didn’t meet the homeowners, we still knew that putting up drywall, painting, or building a retaining wall, would help someone get back into their home. People were devastated, we helped ease their pain,” said Van Dongen.

Both Van Dongen and Holmes, an accountant and founding partner of his own firm, focus much of their volunteer efforts on the H.E.R.O. (Housing/ Hope; Employment/Education; Recovery/Resilience; Opportunities) program and its work at LSM of Camden, an affordable family housing community of 89 townhomes in North Camden. Van Dongen led a workshop for residents, sharing his financial knowledge to provide guidance and tips for managing money. “I’ve met some of the participants and they’re great people,” explained Van Dongen. “They need some coaching and encouragement. This program provides them with that and with hope for their future.”

Holmes was quick to step forward to contribute when he learned a new food pantry was being organized for the residents in Camden. He helped by donating funds to purchase food storage equipment, which allowed for frozen and refrigerated items to be distributed. Craig Roscoe, H.E.R.O. Program and Services

Ken Van Dongen

Manager, explains, “Often our residents have to make the difficult decision to either pay their electric bill or put food on the table to feed their family. The food pantry we opened has helped them eliminate one struggle. We are so grateful to donors, like Mr. Holmes, who understand that every dollar makes a difference to those who are struggling to remain self-sufficient.”

Holmes agrees with Van Dongen on the importance of the H.E.R.O. program. “This program touches the lives of so many and is impactful to the families in our housing programs,” adds Holmes. “It gives me a great sense of satisfaction to help build a better community for these individuals.”

For his work with the Camden community and other initiatives he has been a part of over the years, Holmes said he feels a sense of spiritual fulfillment

Charles Holmes, CPA, CITP, CFF

“because I feel that God requires you to give back your time, resources and talents. Hence, the reason I’m involved with LSMNJ and other non-profits serving the less fortunate. In my opinion, God has blessed me to be a blessing to others.”

Both gentlemen like to spread the word about LSMNJ’s mission, whether with family (Van Dongen’s son is now a donor), friends, their religious congregations or business associates. “There’s so many ways to get involved. The staff can always find you an opportunity to help and volunteer,” said Van Dongen. “And, it’s a great way to learn more about various aspects of social work, things that can expand your skill set.”

And for Holmes, “If you are looking for an organization to give your time and resources to help people, then LSMNJ is the place to get involved. It is well managed and has great leadership from the top.”

Both donors look forward to continuing their service to the community and feel that with most not-for-profits, they could do so much more if they had more resources. “So, we need to maximize what we can do, in the most efficient manner and figure out how can we help the most people with what we have,” added Van Dongen. “That’s the question that I work at helping to answer.”

Approaching wellness from a personal vantage point

Gone are the days of the 'one fits all' approach to so many things. Countless options, customization, and personalization can be found in just about any industry you encounter. That shouldn't have to change when you move to a senior living community and we couldn't agree more.

When Lutheran Social Ministries introduced its new initiative, La Via Wellness, the goal was to bring health and wellness to the forefront of programming at its two senior care communities, Crane's Mill and The Villa at Florham Park. La Via Wellness, a forward-thinking, industry-leading wellness program designed especially for its residents, applies six key dimensions which serve as stepping stones on the path to comprehensive well-being. Physical, Spiritual, Intellectual, Emotional & Social, Vocational, and Environmental are six elements that now serve as the foundation for creating clubs, events, activities, and classes offered exclusively to residents.

La Via literally translates to "the road," as the program's focus is on helping each resident find their own path to wellness. Whether a resident has modest ambitions like eating more vegetables or reading a trendy piece of fiction, or seeks something more challenging like improving endurance or attending university courses, La Via makes it easy to get started, follow through, and achieve those goals.

Each month, at both communities, a calendar of programs is published and delivered to residents. Icons from the logo that depict each of the six elements appear alongside programs which meet La Via's purpose. Residents can personalize their own La Via wellness plan by selecting exactly which activities meet their wants and needs.

"We launched La Via Wellness at The Villa in November, last year," explains Lester Macalalag, ADC, CDP, director of life enrichment. "The residents have enjoyed being able to select the activities that best fit their lifestyle. La Via makes it easy for them to look at our recreation calendar and find the icons next to their favorite wellness activities."

At Crane's Mill, the community's director of community programming, Nicole Smith, found it easy to incorporate La Via elements into the resident's activity programs. "Keeping yourself active is very important as we age," shares Smith. "At Crane's Mill, there are a number of ways to stay mentally and physically active. Now with La Via, there are even more opportunities."

Wellness is a key component to independence and longevity. The introduction of the La Via program is another way Crane's Mill and The Villa are able to enhance quality of life for the residents. And although 2020 has created many challenges and even some obstacles for residents to engage in wellness activities, the staff at both communities have used lots of creativity and some ingenuity to see that all six elements are still offered whether in-person or virtually. The importance of promoting health and wellness is still of great importance – especially during this time of social distancing.

Anyone can view the community activity calendars online at cranesmill.org and thevillaflp.org under Lifestyle - La Via Wellness.

Connecting seniors in new ways is Never 2 Late

Through a generous grant from the Wallerstein Foundation for Geriatric Life Improvement, Crane's Mill and The Villa at Florham Park received It's Never 2 Late® (iN2L), a user-friendly software platform to implement into its memory care environments. The innovative, picture-based, touch screen interface easily allows residents to navigate their way through interactive, educational, spiritual, and individualized content that is tailored to each of their own interests and skill level.

iN2L engages residents. The software program enhances the memory care activities both communities already offer. In addition, it increases the resident's sensory experience through visuals, sound, and touch. Through a simulator environment, they can drive a car, fly an airplane, cycle through a park or travel to a foreign country. From group trivia games and puzzles, to inspirational videos and a substantial digital library filled with music and movies, there is something for every resident to enjoy.

With a 72-inch touch screen console and several handheld tablets, residents can enjoy the program 24 hours a day. This is especially helpful for those with dementia who can experience 'sundowning', a disturbance to the 24-hour 'body clock' that tells the body when to sleep and is caused by physical changes to the brain. The software provides them with a relaxing and enjoyable activity option.

There is also the ability to Skype and email with friends and family. These types of engagement tools are very beneficial, especially to those with memory care needs as they facilitate interaction and communication. "The system has a lot to offer," shares Marina Ferrer, vice president and executive director of Crane's Mill. "It has helped us enhance our resident-centered program, increased resident and family involvement, and improve overall quality of life."

The software does not limit itself to dementia residents and is being enjoyed by all residents. The iN2L program engages residents on all levels of care in mind-stimulating activities. It offers content-driven engagement to support social interaction, cognitive and physical exercise and therapy, education, reminiscing, areas of interest, memory support, and more with touch screen systems ideal for both group engagement and individual experiences.

"We are so grateful that The Wallerstein Foundation could fund this incredible resource for us," explains Alison Lauck, vice president of philanthropy. "The primary mission of their non-profit charitable organization is to support qualifying not-for-profit organizations that assist elderly individuals to remain healthy, active and engaged and generally to improve their quality of life. The iN2L software has certainly made a positive impact already on the residents at both of our senior care communities."

Ferrer adds, "The benefits of iN2L are endless. We are enriching the lives of those we serve through meaningful, fulfilling, and high-quality interactions."

if you can't run, then walk,
if you can't walk, then crawl,

you have to keep moving forward."*

Everyday heroes work here — ready for anything

During these unprecedented times and adverse circumstances throughout the coronavirus pandemic, Lutheran Social Ministries of New Jersey continues to weather the turbulence which has impacted each of its programs in one way or another. Most notably affected have been Crane's Mill, The Villa at Florham Park and Lutheran Senior LIFE. Each being located within New Jersey's initial COVID-19 epicenter, and each providing essential care to the state's most vulnerable and frail elderly population.

"We have certainly had days over the past few months that have been overwhelmingly sad and solemn," recalls Colleen Frankenfield, president and CEO of LSMNJ. "We've lost residents that have meant a great deal to us and even an employee. As we reflect on those long days, we see moments that remind us that even though we cannot see it, we must have faith. There are no worldly answers to explain the pandemic and why it has affected some and not others. While there is no comfort in not knowing or understanding, many of us find comfort in our faith revealed in the action of others."

No one could have imagined what the first half of 2020 would deliver. With every new challenge they faced, the employees of LSMNJ rallied together to ensure that everyone's health and safety was the highest priority. From the leadership team to the nursing staff, housekeeping, property managers, maintenance and marketing, everyone has had a hand in caring for the more than 3,000 people the organization serves.

At Lutheran Senior LIFE at Jersey City, participant care, typically provided at its Center on Jersey Avenue, has been delivered directly to seniors in their homes. To keep participants safe, everything from nursing and nurse practitioner visits in the home, to meal and prescription delivery, pastor visits, virtual activities, daily well checks, and door-to-door transportation to doctor appointments has been provided.

"We have always been a community-based program, providing care in our participant's homes," explains Chris Lesicko, RN, BSN, MBA, vice president and executive director of Lutheran Senior LIFE. "This 'new normal' has just shifted our services to be 100% in the home. In doing so, we're providing peace-of-mind for the families of those we care for — managing just about everything and allowing them to shelter safely in their home."

At Crane's Mill, The Villa at Florham Park, Journey Hospice and each of the 11 affordable housing properties, the staff are finding new ways of keeping residents from feeling isolated and alone, connecting with their loved ones, and making sure they are receiving nutritious meals and basic necessities.

"All of the staff and administration are going above and beyond to keep us safe and informed," touts Cheryl Friedman, an independent living resident at Crane's Mill. "While many of my friends wait for hours in lines to go food shopping, our meals are delivered to us. Although these are extremely stressful times, the care we are getting here has helped to alleviate at least a small part of that stress. There are no words to express how grateful I am to be here and how appreciative I am for the wonderful staff we have."

At Mt. Olive Manor, an affordable senior housing residence in Flanders, residents, Walter and Lorraine Flynn, commended LSMNJ and their property management in a letter of appreciation citing, "Our two apartment buildings have stayed safe and healthy due to the management of Robin Schloesser. She took all the proper action from the very beginning of this unprecedented pandemic. We are very grateful."

During the toughest times, several staff members moved into Crane's Mill to relieve the healthcare team while providing round-the-clock care. Still others had some of their roles reversed to assist where needed across the state. "I couldn't be more proud of our team," shares Frankenfield. "We have certainly been challenged during this crisis, but have learned so much about the power of people and what can be accomplished when we all come together as 'one'. Every department and every staff member has cared for our clients, residents and participants as they would their own family."

Many employees placed their personal lives on hold since this started to ensure the health and safety of those under their care. Arriving to work each day and enduring many long hours, then returning home each night to their families, realizing the risks that come home with them. "We have a really incredible team at LSMNJ," adds Frankenfield. "I am forever grateful to each and every employee. They remind me every moment of every day that the grace of God is alive in all of us, in all that we do."

Frankenfield Serves As LeadingAgeNJDE Board Chair

Colleen Frankenfield has been appointed for a two-year term as the Chair of the LeadingAgeNJDE Board of Trustees. This is a well-deserved honor as Colleen has dedicated her career to bettering the lives of those in long-term care. She has garnered an immense amount of knowledge throughout her career. Licensed as a registered nurse, as well as a nursing home administrator, Colleen has also served as an attorney with legal firms specializing in health law and professional liability.

"There has never been a more critical time for us to work together to advocate for our residents, our organizations and our association. Together, we have always transformed senior services by asking the question, 'What if?' We need to continue to ask those questions to evolve, change and create vibrant communities for those we serve every day."

Mission Champion Program Recognizes Stellar Employees

The LSMNJ Foundation introduced a new program in 2019 which gives grateful residents, clients, patients and families an opportunity to recognize employees who go above and beyond as champions of the LSMNJ mission.

Donors make a financial contribution to the Foundation in honor of the employee. The gift is typically accompanied with a note or card sharing personal messages of thanks for the care they or their loved one received from the employee they have recognized.

Each honored employee is presented with a special 'Mission Champion' lanyard to proudly wear each day and a copy of the 'thank you' note from the family. Additionally, they are recognized through social media and among their peers.

For more information on how you can honor an employee with a Mission Champion charitable gift, visit our website, ask the front desk attendant at any one of our communities, or call the LSMNJ Foundation office at 609.699.4138.

LSMNJ Sells Lutheran Crossings at Moorestown

On January 30, 2020, LSMNJ transitioned ownership of Lutheran Crossings at Moorestown to private equity investment firm, Tryko Partners. Tryko Partners has a healthcare affiliate, Marquis Health Services, which has maintained the community as a senior care and rehabilitation facility. Since 1947, LSMNJ owned and operated the 201-bed skilled nursing facility, which also included assisted living and rehabilitation services. When LSMNJ's plans for adding independent living to the campus were not approved by the township, management had to make the difficult decision to sell the property. Marquis Health Services has a $12 million improvement plan to renovate the community. In the end, the decision was beneficial to both organizations.

Renovation Progress at Crane's Mill

Crane's Mill Retirement Community completed its first two phases of renovations in 2019, including a complete overhaul of its skilled nursing, memory support and rehabilitation neighborhoods. Additional renovations in independent living included a refreshing facelift to its pool and hot tub, and its rehabilitation department and wellness center. More renovations are in progress, and the final stage of the project is slated to be done by 2021.

The Villa's Antimicrobial Award

The Villa at Florham Park was selected to receive a Silver Award in the inaugural New Jersey Antimicrobial Stewardship Recognition Program, run by the NJ Department of Health. This program highlights local healthcare facility Antimicrobial Stewardship Programs (ASPs) that can demonstrate implementation of the Center for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC)'s Core Elements for Antimicrobial Stewardship. Acute care hospitals, post-acute care facilities and outpatient facilities from across the state applied for the program and were ranked as Gold, Silver or Bronze based on a review of their ASP interventions and policies.

FUNDING OUR

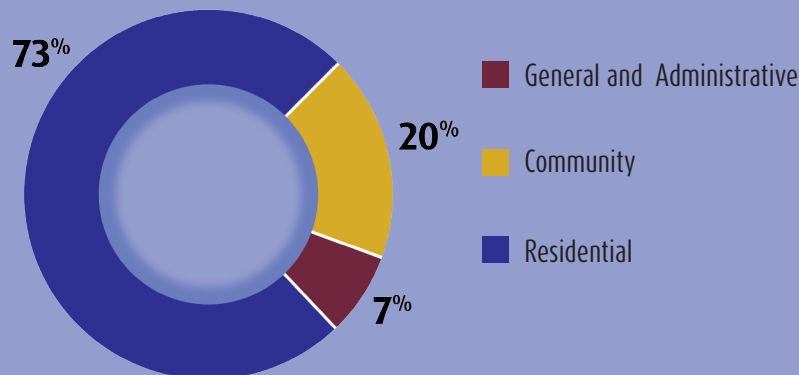

Mission

Lutheran Social Ministries of New Jersey operates as a 501c3 non-profit organization and is governed by a Board of Trustees which includes representatives from the clergy, churches, businesses and other sectors of the community throughout New Jersey. We are committed to the responsible stewardship of all funds and programs. We offer this overview of revenues received and their use in support of our mission from January 1 through December 31, 2019.

Total Revenue: $72.0 Million

Total Expenses: $77.0 Million

Each year, the Lutheran Social Ministries of New Jersey Foundation marshalls resources and inspires benevolence in order for LSMNJ to conduct God's work and serve more than 3,100 people in the state.

In order to sustain and enhance the programs and services we provide, we must replenish necessary funds through our philanthropic network of generous donors, corporate partnerships, and grants. The role of the Foundation is essential to the many lives who rely on our organization for their health and well-being.

This past year, we welcomed many to our Golf Outing, our Bid 'N Bowl event, as well as two TopGolf events. We are grateful to those who joined us and not only provided their support, but also gathered in fellowship. We extend heartfelt thanks and special recognition to our 2019 Corporate Partners for their dedication to LSMNJ and their generous commitment to our mission.
